MADERO DECLINES THE ARMISTICE

Insurrecto Leader Thinks Proposal Ruse to Secure Reinforcements--Grants Additional 24 Hours Before Attacking Juarez.

Special to Telegram.

El Paso, Texas, April 20.—Replying to the request of Dr. Gomez, sent from Washington, for an armistice with the federals, Francisco I. Madero said this afternoon: "They want an armistice in order to give them time to secure reinforcements; that is all. My army will win or be whipped at Juarez before we talk armistice."

Madero said he would grant President Diaz another 24 hours to consider his ultimatum, but could not guarantee to withhold longer the bombardment of the place.

It is feared the city will be attacked after midnight.

Juarez Expecting Madero's Attack.

El Paso, Tex., April 20.—Daybreak found the situation around Juarez unchanged. It is reported that considerable supplies of ammunition were smuggled across the river to the insurrectos under the cover of darkness.

Formal demand for the surrender of Juarez within twenty-four hours was made by the insurrectos last night, according to Gonzales Garza, secretary-general of the insurrecto party, who declared that he had forwarded the demand to General Navarro, the federal commander, through the United States consul at Juarez.

According to United States army officers here Juarez is well prepared for the expected attack. The trenches outside the city, they say, have been so well constructed as practically to defy discovery and the fortifications within the city show unusual military skill. Juarez, in their opinion, is in a position to resist the attack of a force far greater than its garrison.

The insurrectos, it is believed, must attack soon after the expiration of the 24 hour respite given in their demand for the surrender last night as they are said to be without food.

From Bauche, 12 miles south of Juarez, where they detrained, they advanced on foot into the hills near Juarez, taking with them, it is said, no food supplies but a flock of goats.

At Bauche the insurrectos have their trains under steam ready for a hasty retreat should their attack fail.

Advices from the insurrecto camp near Madero, Chihuahua, last night, declared that the force advancing on Juarez consisted of 1,940 men.

Fully a score of speeches were made on the subject today.

ORANGE PRESBYTERY CONSIDERED HOME MISSION REPORTS

Durham, April 20.—The session of the Orange Presbytery this morning was devoted almost entirely to receiving and discussing the report of the home mission board. The cause of home missions was presented to the Presbytery by A. M. Scales and Rev. Melton Clark, of Greensboro.

The report of the board showed that the conditions of the home mission work of the Presbytery was flourishing. The board has devoted especial attention to the Glade Valley high school, which is doing a wonderful work in the education of the people of the mountain district in Western North Carolina.

This evening will be devoted to the hearing of an address by Dr. S. H. Chester, of Nashville, Tenn.

The laymen and ministers in attendance at the Presbytery enjoyed the concert of the Damrosch orchestra at the academy Wednesday evening as guests of the members of the Durham congregation.

NO INTERVENTION SAYS PRESIDENT

Taft Tells Senators and Congressmen That Time Has Not Arrived for United States to Take Hand in Mexican Troubles—Senator Stone's Speech Criticised.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, April 20.—At a conference with Senator Knox and a committee from the House this afternoon, President Taft stated that further difficulties must arise on account of conditions in Mexico before the United States would be justified in taking steps for intervention. He believes these conditions may arise because of the proximity of the fighting lines to the United States border.

Senators Lodge, Root and Bacon all protested against Senator Stone's contention in his Senate speech that the President should be given authority to prevent forcibly such occurrences as those which have transpired at Douglas, Arizona.

"WHAT A WALLOP," U. S. JUSTICE CRIES.

Judges of the Highest Court Applaud a Hit by Washington Ball Player.

Washington, April 20.—Supreme Court Justices Lurton, Day and Harlan recently finished their duties at the Capitol in time to attend the baseball game between the Highlanders and the Senators at American League park.

The three Justices got seats well down in front in the grand stand, just behind the press table, where they could see all that was going on. From start to finish they manifested a lively interest in the contest, and occasionally one or the other of the elderly and dignified looking jurists ventured into the dialect of the diamond.

"Gracious! What a wallop!" exclaimed one of the trio when Conway knocked a three-bagger into deep right field.

The Justices looked pleased when Vaughn, in the eighth inning, gave way to Quinn, and when they rose to depart at the close of the game it was with mutual assurances of a reunion in the grand stand at the next game.

Old Document May Settle Boundary Dispute With Tenn.

Lenoir, N. C., April 20.—Hon. Chas. T. Cates, Jr., attorney general of the state of Tennessee and Hon. Thomas W. Bickett, attorney general of the State of North Carolina, met here yesterday to take the deposition of Capt. W. D. Jones, relative to an old record of the late Gen. William Davenport, grandfather of Mr. Jones, bearing directly upon the old boundary line between the State of Tennessee and North Carolina, which has been a source of contention for many years between these two commonwealths.

The deposition was conducted by Mr. Bickett in behalf of the State of North Carolina and Mr. Cates conducted the cross-examination for Tennessee. It appears that this is the only record to be found in either of the states bearing upon the disputed boundary line. Several years ago a new line was run and established, but parties in the disputed territory have from time to time been rangling over the two lines. This old record, which purports to be the field notes of Gen. William Davenport, who was commissioned by the State of North Carolina to run out the line, was found in a secret drawer of an old sideboard, which was the property of Gen. Davenport, on the 10th day of last November, by W. D. Jones, or some member of his family. Mr. Jones lives in the house which was owned by Gen. Davenport, known as "The Fountain," in the Happy Valley of the Yadkin river, about six miles north of Lenoir.

This old line was run and established in the summer of 1821 and the old book, or field notes, bearing the date of August, of that year, appears to have been written in two handwritings which is supposed to be those of Gen. Davenport and his wife, and was fully identified by Mr. Jones, during the deposition. It is thought by the authorities of this State that this old record will forever settle the dispute over the line between the two states and give to North Carolina an acquisition of territory of about 60 square miles, as there appears to be a discrepency, at several points, of about eight miles in width.

The old sideboard in which these valuable papers was found, is an old heirloom and had never been molested and contained many secret drawers, which held many of the late Gen. Davenport's papers and documents, and little did any one suppose that in this old-fashioned sideboard were the papers that will ultimately and incidentally, for all time, settle a dispute of such great importance to North Carolina. In the opinion of the lawyers and others who attended the deposition, the finding of these old field notes and their identification, is proof conclusive that North Carolina has, or will win in the controversy over the disputed territory, and will mean many thousands of dollars, if not millions, to the State. The old book, or field notes made by Gen. Davenport, are now in the hands of Attorney General Bickett.

MISSION SOCIETIES ARE IN SESSION

Convention of Foreign Missions Organization of M. P. Church is Being Largely Attended—Program for Friday Morning—Final Session This Afternoon.

Yesterday's sessions of the North Carolina Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, being held in Grace M. P. church, were largely attended and proved most interesting and profitable. The first session was held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. T. J. Ogburn offering the invocation. Ten auxiliaries were represented at the opening session.

Mrs. A. G. Dixon, the president, conducted the devotional service, after which Mrs. J. M. Stone delivered the welcome address. Miss Jessie Williams, of Asheville, responded. Then came the rollcall of officers and auxiliaries and the reading of the minutes, after which an instructive paper on "The Work of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions" was read by Dr. Harris-Glascock. During the thirty years of its existence the board has sent 119 missionaries to China and Japan. The North Carolina branch supports one missionary, Miss Mallett, in Japan.

At the afternoon session the committees were appointed and reports read from the several auxiliaries. The reports were highly gratifying to all present and showed that the women were quite active in their work. Rev. T. J. Ogburn told of the work of the Men's Board of Foreign Missions, while Mrs. J. F. McCulloch spoke on the history of the North Carolina Branch.

Last night there was an address by Rev. A. G. Dixon, the speaker being heard with much interest by a large audience. The final session will be held this afternoon, at which time the place for the next meeting will be decided on and officers for the ensuing year elected. The program for this morning follows:

Friday Morning, 10 O'clock.

Devotional Exercises—Mrs. J. F. McCulloch.
Rollcall.
Reading of minutes.
Reports of committees.
Reports from superintendents of departments.

TRIANGULAR HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE

Debaters From Charlotte to Meet Local Boys Tonight—Team will go From Greensboro to Raleigh and Team From Raleigh will go to Charlotte.

This evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Smith Memorial building the local number of the Raleigh-Greensboro-Charlotte debate will be held. The teams of each institution have prepared excellent discussions and the debaters and their supporters are anxiously awaiting the result of the final struggle. The query is "Resolved, that the federal government should levy a graduated income tax, barring constitutional objections."

The query will be debated in Greensboro, Raleigh and Charlotte, and in each city the affirmative will be upheld by the local debaters. Hugh Wolfe and Adger Forney will go to Raleigh to debate the negative against Cary Hunter and Oliver Smith. Tully Blair and Sigmund Lindau will remain at home and uphold the affirmative over the Charlotte debaters, Aubrey Alexander and Tracy Huntley. Two debaters will go from Raleigh to Charlotte.

For the past two years debates have been arranged between Raleigh, Greensboro and Durham. This year Durham dropped out and Charlotte promptly took her place. Last year Greensboro won over both Raleigh and Durham.

The debate here tonight promises to be quite interesting and there will no doubt be a large attendance of patrons and friends of the High School. The judges will be W. C. Smith, E. J. Justice and A. L. Brooks. The marshals are from the High School societies as follows:

Forest Murray, chief, and Ralph Lewis, Philomelian; Herman Cone and William Grimsley, Diaphesian; Misses Ruth Vanstory and Lucille Devlin, Ionian; Mary Beall and Lynn Richardson, McNeil.

Central Highway Trustees Organized In Raleigh Yesterday

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, April 20.—The trustees of the North Carolina Central Highway appointed by the General Assembly at its recent session organized here today with the election of H. B. Varner, editor of Southern Good Roads, Lexington, as president; E. E. Britton, Raleigh, secretary and George Royall, Goldsboro, as treasurer. The trustees selected also a central committee to act with the president in the prosecution of the work, these being William Dunn, New Bern; Dr. J. M. Templeton, Cary; R. E. Clark, Statesville; W. T. Morgan, Marion; Thomas J. Murray, Marshall, and J. A. Wellons, Smithfield. The trustees determined to set about the preliminary work for the preliminary surveys to be undertaken just as soon as the State Geological Survey can co-operate. An automobile trip by President Varner, member of the central committee, and as many others as can join in is planned to start at Beaufort within the next few weeks and make the run through the State to the Tennessee line attending local meetings all along the line and stirring up interest in the movement which is for a great highway 460 miles in length, the longest ever undertaken in any State of the Union, it is said. The trustees voted to ask the commissioners of each of the nineteen counties through which the road is to pass to contribute $25 to the fund for the preliminary work. Also they are asked to name a committee of five in their respective counties to have in hand the matters pertaining to the road as they bear on the counties. P. B. Beard, representing Rowan county, declared that his county is ready to build every foot of the highway through Rowan although it will cost as much as $1,500 per mile instead of the $50 per mile that the legislative act provided for. A number of the other counties declared that their counties were also ready to put the construction of the road

REPUBLICAN LEADERS MET LAST NIGHT

Republican State Chairman John M. Morehead was in the city last night, leaving at 10:20 for his home in Spray. District Attorney Holton, of Winston, spent a few hours in the city en route home from Statesville, where he has been attending court. While in the city Messrs. Holton and Morehead met in the parlors of the Huffine and conversed for some time. It has been rumored that these two Republicans were at outs, but they appeared quite friendly last night.

According to rumor Chairman Morehead has been insisting that President Taft reappoint ex-Judge A. L. Coble, of Statesville, as assistant to District Attorney Holton, Judge Coble being a relatives of the State Chairman. It is understood that Mr. Holton prefers a change in assistants and is opposing the reappointment of Judge Coble. The term of office of the assistant district attorney has long since expired, but he still holds the office until his successor is appointed.

THE BARACA-PHILATHEA STATE CONVENTION.

Greensboro will add laurels to its reputation as the convention city of North Carolina by entertaining the convention of the Baraca-Philathea unions of the State. The delegates to this convention come to the city Saturday and will remain through Sunday and Monday. The enthusiasm of the young people who compose the six hundred classes of these organizations is so abounding, and they are so greatly pleased to have the opportunity of holding their first joint State meeting in Greensboro, that the attendance at the convention is going to rise to a point which was not anticipated by the organizations or by their hosts in this city. Greensboro is glad to know this is true, and that the attendance of delegates will probably reach the number of six hundred, instead of four hundred, which was the maximum attendance expected from the beginning. The visitors will be entertained in the Greensboro style and the Greensboro spirit will be in evidence on all sides in receiving them and in making their stay here pleasant and profitable.

It is a privilege this city has in being selected as the place of meeting for the Baracas and Philatheas. The members of these organizations are a noble band of young men and young women, knit together in the bonds of organization and striving to do helpful and uplifting work for one another and for humanity. The Baraca and Philathea classes are non-sectarian Bible classes, organized in the bounds of all evangelical denominations, and while they are united in organizations entirely without the bounds of all denominations, their work is carried on in conjunction with the various Protestant churches and is strictly a part of the regular work of the Bible or Sunday school.

These movements, the first for young men, and later the Philathea organization for young women, are flourishing and spreading and developing in a manner which indicates that they have fully met the approval of the Christian young people of the country and likewise of the leaders of the various religious denominations. In North Carolina alone there are now more than six hundred Baraca and Philathea classes, and Greensboro has more than fifty of this number.

It is fitting that the first joint State convention of the organizations should be held in the city which has one-twelfth of the Baraca and Philathea classes of the State. The coming of this host of young people whose lives are consecrated in a spirit of unselfishness and helpfulness to doing good, to mutual encouragement and assistance, to the teaching of the Scriptures and to the upbuilding of the church, should be an occasion of moment to the Christian people of Greensboro. The inspiration of the convention will be exceedingly uplifting and its practical benefits will be conferred upon all, young and old, who attend the sessions of the convention or come in contact with the influences it generates and puts in motion.

The Telegram urges all the people of the city, regardless of denominational lines, to take an interest in this meeting. The same course is urged upon those who have no church affiliations. The Baracas and Philatheas are going about doing good to all men and all women whom they can serve. Meeting the delegates, helping to entertain them and attending the sessions of their convention will prove a pleasure to everyone and will undoubtedly afford the opportunity for creating favorable impressions of this city in the minds of as fine body of young men and young women as the State affords.

THE GROWING OF BROOM CORN.

The bulk of this country's broom corn is raised in Illinois, and it is announced that the growers in the counties which produce the main part of the supply have signed an agreement to grow no more broom corn for five years, unless the dealers will guarantee them a price to exceed $120 per ton in advance of planting season. The Philadelphia Record is not alarmed at this threat of the broom corn growers and thinks that it will make little difference to the country whether the Illinois farmers grow broom corn or do not grow it. The Record says that people nowadays use vacuum cleaners instead of brooms.

As a matter of fact the Record is entirely wrong in its conclusions. For every family in the United States using a vacuum cleaner there are a thousand using the old-fashioned brooms made of broom corn. The scarcity of broom corn—and it has been scarce for several years past—has been a matter of some consequence to millions of housekeepers. The prices of brooms have risen steadily until they are now about double the prices of a few years ago. The increase of prices has been atributed by manufacturers and dealers to the limited supply of broom corn. This may not be altogether responsible for it, but it is certain that brooms now cost buyers at retail much more than they paid for them a few years ago. Housekeepers have taken note of the fact and have found that the higher prices mean an added expense which is entirely worth consideration.

Perhaps vacuum cleaners are used in the offices of the Philadelphia Record and they are doubtless used in many Philadelphia homes; but it is altogether improbable that they are used in a majority of the homes of that city; and in the smaller cities and towns they are used to a very lmited extent. In fact, there are no doubt a thousand homes in the country in which brooms are used for every one in which vacuum cleaners, carpet sweepers or some other methods of cleaning is employed. The broom is still the household cleaning implement of the common people, and it price is a matter of consequence to those who buy and use them.

The growing of broom corn ought to be profitable in North Carolina. It is carried on to some extent; but, the present scarcity of broom corn, the consequent demand for it and the high prices of brooms form a combination of circumstances which should make its production more profitable than at any time in the past. Broom corn can probably not be produced as successfully in North Carolina as in Illinois, but it will grow here with sufficient certainty and in sufficient quantity to make its cultivation very profitable, we believe. If the growing of broom corn should be largely introduced into this section there would spring up, as a result, broom factories; which would add to the industrial interests of the State. Broom corn growing is a subject which Guilford farmers should investigate. There is probably money in it for them.

Lorimer's silence probably means that he consents to hold his seat.

All is quiet in South Carolina. Governor Blease is absent from the State for a few days.

The Carolina League season opening in six days distant. Yes; that is why so many of them are wearing the smile that cannot be effaced.

South Carolina has grown a lemon as big as a squash, it is alleged. That lemon, however, is small in comparison with the proportions of Governor Blease.

President Taft has appeared before the country in several roles, and there be those who would like to see the fat man in his fighting clothes.

How are Texans along the border going to plant their crops if the rain of Mexican bullets continues to fall on this side of the line?

In the little game between the insurrectos and the federals down in Mexico both sides seem to have been hitting 'em over the boundary fence into the United States.

Says the Greenville Piedmont: "Virginia has a Congressman named Glass, but he does not mind throwing stones." That is because he lives in Glass' house and not in a glass house.

The champaigne spillers and destroyers of France will have the hearty approval of Dr. Wiley. Their uprising is directed against misbranding of wines. In fact, it is a good sized pure drink crusade.

They are talking of building a canning factory at Gastonia. The orchards and truck farms of Charlotte are near enough to furnish a large supply of the raw materials needed to keep a canning factory running.

"Was it Potash?" asked the Columbia State, seeking an explanation of the resignation of Ambassador Hill. We don't know; but there is no doubt of the fact that the Ambassador's resignation is a fertile subject for discussion.

Georgia leads all the Southern States in expenditures for road improvement. Last year the Georgians spent $3,000,000 for good roads. It is estimated that in the same period of time this State expended $800,000 for road improvement.

Another storm is brewing in the ranks of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The fighting spirit is so strong in the descendants of Revolutionary soldiers that even the gentle daughters are more or less imbued with it.

NEWSPAPER OPINION.

Our Most Urgent Problem.

Gratifying progress is being made in Georgia in the effort to diminish the dangerous and criminal practice of carrying concealed deadly weapons and the good effects of the movement are already beginning to appear. The Atlanta newspapers, which are among the most influential in the South, are leading in this movement and arousing public sentiment to the folly and danger and resultant crime of the weapon carrying habit. Now the courts have joined hands with the press in this commendable movement and the habit is being more effectually fought than ever before. West Virginia, too, which has suffered greatly from the revolver-carrying habit, has recently adopted and is enforcing drastic legislation against what is popularly known in the South as the "pistol-toter," meaning the man who habitually carries a concealed deadly weapon. Jail sentences have replaced fines and the sale of revolvers is limited and regulated by law. Virginia is lagging behind its sister States in effective deterrent measures, with the consequence that accidental and homicidal deathes are of distressing frequency.

The Atlanta Constitution in a recent editorial recites the fact that Judge C. H. Brand, of the Western judicial circuit is attacking the problem of the pistol-toter at its source, the apathy of public sentiment. At a recent session of court in Athens, Judge Brand secured the pledge of about three hundred negroes to co-operate in stamping out the weapon-carrying evil. When those who were in favor of sending the weapon carrier, white or black to jail, were asked to stand up, the whole audience stood. While admitting that all will not live up to their pledge, our Atlanta contemporary properly regards this as a significant expression of public sentiment. "At the last analysis," says the Constitution, "the solution must rest largely with absolute enforcement of the penalties provided, in all their rigor." The Atlanta paper advocates the imposition of heavy chain-gang sentences as an effective means of begetting wholesome respect for the law. "It only requires a concentrated and sentiment-proof public opinion to stamp out a menance that feeds on indifference or law slackly administrated," adds the Constitution.—Danville Register.

WHAT NORTH CAROLINA EDITORS ARE SAYING.

Newspapers and Space Are Worth More.

The Greensboro Telegram, which recently passed under the control of J. T. Fain and H. G. Braxton, has increased its size from six to sexen columns to the page, and accompanying the enlargement is a decided improvement in the mechanical appearance of the paper. Improvements made and contemplated have caused the publishers to increase the subscription price and advertising rates of The Telegram and the Patriot trusts the publishers may have no cause to regret the steps they have taken. There is no disputing the fact that the newspapers in this "neck of the woods," as in most other places, do not set sufficient value on their subscription and advertising rates.—Greensboro Patriot.

Is It Tinkering?

Mr. Ceaser Cone, an excellent citizen of Greensboro and a man of large affairs, made an address to the employes of his mill at White Oak the past week, and took occasion to say among other things:

"They are trying to make good times by legislation, by tinkering with the tariff. I think they had better leave it alone. The cotton mill situation is not good, and I think we are going to have hard times for some little time."

There are people who might have made the remark attributed to Mr. Cone, and we would have thought different of them, but Mr. Cone bears the reputation of a kind, conscientious employer, and we believe he means well in his observation, but Mr. Cone is off, away off, when he expresses the wish that Congress do not tinker with the tariff.

This tariff question has been so often and so ably threshed out, its ill-effects so clearly put that any attempt in connection with this matter to further elucidate it would seem superflous, and we forbear just now. But why call it tinkering? when Aldrich, Cannon, and Payne were fastening the most iniquitous tariff of any age upon the American people it was not called tariff tinkering, but it should have been called legalized brigandage. If the evils come to this country which Mr. Cone believes now threaten us, it will be because the favored class will so manipulate its finances as to bring it about. They will attempt to squeeze the industrial world, until it piteously begs to be robbed even more if it but gives them rest.

Any attempt to choke off this overgrown tariff pampered pet calf from the public crib will be met by the most strenuous tugging at the ropes, and serious financial disaster to the country if it is possible for them to inflict it. But the longer an abatement of this evil is deferred the more difficult it will be to relieve the country from its effects.

We have already waited entirely too long. Twenty-five years ago the task of regulating the tariff upon a reasonable basis would have been difficult, today it has grown desperate; but at whatever cost, and whatever sacrifice it should be reduced and regulated upon a reasonable basis. The thieving set have gone a long way too far.

Should we admit that there is no demand for tariff "tinkering" from the business people, it would argue nothing in defense of right. It is some of the business interests that profit largest by the standpat steal but the people of this nation thundered their protest against the present tariff iniquity in the last election, and if that protest is not heard and heeded there will be something else of a more emphatic character done. The commercial world is looking forward to dark days, it expects to be ground in the mill of depression by these soulless cormorants, and the only thing this demonstrates is that they have been given power too long. If the people must fight this battle to a finish to secure their rights, then let it come. It is costing them today much more to endure it than the most destructive war the world has ever known.—Mebane Leader.

CLOTHING AND HEALTH

(By FRANCIS WILEY.)

The pretty effects should be secondary considerations in comparison with comfort, and its connection with good health, when making the children's clothes. If only mothers could realize how much of their true selves they publish to the world in the appearance of their little ones.

Every child is dressed with one of these points in view; either the clothes are made to suit the nature and comfort of their little wearer, or their daintiness is of an order which converts the child into nothing more or less than a showy doll.

There is no concealment of the fact; one or the other of these examples are to be seen in almost every child one meets.

And yet foolish mothers of these "exhibition children" will flatter themselves that their small sons and daughters are the prettiest children in the district! It is indeed a lamentable pity when mothers fail to see that prettiness consists only in glowing cheeks and sound, robust health.

When, however, the clothes are ill fitting or over elaborate, movement is hampered or restrained; therefore development cannot take place. So much has been done to point out this fact to mothers that these mistakes are now no longer due to ignorance.

To insure perfection, no garment should be made independently of another, but each should be so fashioned that it may hang smoothly over the one beneath it. Though at first an entire outfit each time may seem rather an expense, it is really a saving, as the garments in this way all receive an equal amount of wear and can all be replaced together when the child has grown out of them.

Avoid finery and showiness as much as possible upon the dresses of growing children. This does not mean that their dresses should be plain to a degree of ugliness, neither must the periodical "dress up" occasions be disregarded, for it is well for children to understand at an early age the importance of a good appearance.

Simplicity should be the prime factor in children's clothes, not only because it is necessary to health, but further, because their temperaments are affected by it. Teach them, even the youngest, that beauty and elegance do not exist in a great show, but that quiet care in dress has the greatest charm.

Midnight In The Ozarks

and yet sleepless Hiram Scranton, of Clay City, Ill., coughed and coughed. He was in the mountains on the advice of five doctors, who said he had consumption, but found no help in the climate, and started home. Hearing of Dr. King's New Discovery, he began to use it. "I believe it saved my life,' he writes "for it made a new man of me, so that I can now do good work again." For all lung diseases, coughs, colds, la grippe asthma, croup, whooping cough, hay fever, hemorrhages, hoarseness or quinsay, its the best known remedy. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

The Rev. W. H. Jordan, of Jerseyville, Ill., is of the excellent opinion that the Bible written in newspaper style would be vastly more interesting. Let us give the Rev. Jordan his way:

"Adam and Eve, surnames not known, were evicted from their summer home at Paradise park today. The cause is not known. Both are seeking employment."

Or—

"Battling Abel failed to come back last night and was knocked out in the first round by Kid Cain."

It's too easy to multiply them.

At Last.

A man who had been convicted of stealing was brought before a certain judge, well known for his tenderheartedness, to be sentenced.

"Have you ever been sentenced to imprisonment?" asked the judge, not unkindly.

"Never!" exclaimed the prisoner, suddenly bursting into tears.

"Well, well, don't cry my man," said his honor, consolingly; "you're going to be now."

Saved His Mother's Life.

"Four doctors had given me up," writes Mrs. Laura Gaines, of Avoca, La., "and my children and all my friends were looking for me to die, when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good. I will always praise them." Electric Bitters is a priceless blessing to women troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, backache, headache, weakness, debility, constipation or kidney disorders. Use them and gain new health, strength and vigor. They're guaranteed to satisfy or money refunded. Only 50c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

"Gosh, I hate to see summer come," said the farmer.

"Why?"

"Coz all summer long ma dishes up a lot of stuff we can't eat ourselves jes' to let the city boarders think they're gettin' plain home cooking."—Detroit Free Press.

A Spring Suggestion by a Trained Druggist.

Appendicitis and many other ills come from Constipation and over-loading with food which the system cannot care for. The bowels must be cleared and antisepticised to give their normal functions and this should not be done by strong Cathartics, as every physician will tell you. Vick's Little Liver Pills have been the bowels and mild stimulation to the lazy liver and thus cure trouble in adults or children.

"I'm going to build a new theater along improved lines."

"How now?"

"It is a hardship for society people to walk from the curb to their seats. I propose to arrange things so that carriages can drive right down the center aisle.—Pittsburg Post.

Kicked By a Mad Horse

Samuel Birch, of Bestown, Wis., had a most narrow escape from losing his leg, as no doctor could heal the frightful sore that developed, but at last Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it completely. Its the greatest healer of ulcers, burns, boils, eczema, scalds, cuts, corns, cold-sores, bruises and piles on earth. Try it. 25c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Mr. Rambo (next morning) —Nancy, I was perfectly sober when I came home last night, wasn't I?

Mrs. Rambo—I think so, Absalom; still I thought it was a little queer that you asked me what I'd done with the newspaper that had Widrow Woolson's speech in it.—Chicago Tribune.

Talk to Mothers.

There is need in the home for cuts, bruises, sores and sprains, children and others are heirs to a real good antiseptic liniment, one which will not burn and hurt worse than the wound itself, and which will give the greatest relief and prevent scars. Vick's Liniment is prepared for this purpose. Take this suggestion from a trained druggist who knows.

Biggs—You should join our club, old man, if only for the good-fellowship of the thing.

Miggs—I intend to. Brown, one of your members, took my name only last week. Hasn't he said anything about it?

Biggs—No; we don't speak to each other.—Boston Transcript.

One Conductor Helped Back to Work.

Mr. Wilford Adams is his name, and he writes: "I was confined to my bed with chronic rheumatism and used two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy with good effect. The third bottle put me on my feet and I resumed work as conductor on the Lexington, Ky., Street Railway. It will do all you claim in cases of rheumatism." It clears the blood of uric acid. Howard Gardner.

Wife—Be sure to advertise for Fido in the morning papers.

Next day the wife read as follows in the newspapers:

"Lost, a mangy lap-dog with one eye and no tail. Too fat to walk. Answers to the name of Fido. If returned stuffed, $75 reward."

Foley Kidney Pills contain in concentrated form ingredients of established therapeutic value for the relief and cure of all kidney and bladder ailments. Foley Kidney Pills are antiseptic, tonic and restorative. Refuse substitues. Howard Gardner.

"I hear your wife is going to a sanitarium. Nothing serious, I hope?"

"Oh, no. She's secretary of her club."

"Yes?"

"And after carrying the club minutes all winter in her head, she sat down the other day and tried to write 'em out."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Sense in Short Sentences

What we know we keep to ourselves, and what we don't know we talk about.

You can tell that women have no sense of humor by the way they look at their hats without laughing.

A mother is the society debutante's best press agent.

If our lips were our bond, lawyers would soon starve.

All energy is sooner or later transformed into heat, and a great and greater part of the energy put forth by man finds its final manifestation in the hot water which is harder and harder for him to keep out of.

It's all right to take things into consideration, provided they don't belong to somebody else.

A dirigible balloon is one that can be steered in any direction in which the wind happens to be blowing.

There is something plausible in the claim that votes for women is only the thin end of the wedge. Naturally a wedge of that sort will wish to be as thin as possible until the styles change.

THRONGS OF BUYERS CONTINUE

Special Half Price Brings Many Patrons to Howard Gardner.

The people of Greensboro and vicinity appreciate the great advantage Howard Gardner obtained for them, in getting Dr. Howard Co. to allow the regular 50 cest size of Dr. Howard's specific to be sold at half price, 25 cents, and have bought hundreds of bottles.

Unlike ordinary medicines for constipation and dyspepsia, the dose of Dr. Howard's specific is reduced after a few day's use, and the cure is soon complete and lasting.

If you have not already taken advantage of this chance to get a month's medical traeatment for 25 cents, be sure to call at Howard Gardner's today, for he has only a small amount of the specific on hand.

"I was taking lunch with a friend of mine recently who has a small boy about three years old," said a gentleman, "As a very special favor and to please me, his mother allowed him to come to the table, telling me that she could not promise that he would behave in the proper manner, as she had never tried him before.

"The boy behaved very well until the dessert came on the table. As this proved to be ice cream, his favorte dish, he wanted to have a second dish. His mother refusing, he said: 'If you don't give me some I'll tell on you!' The mother still refusing, he cried out: 'If you don't give it to me before I count 10, I'll tell. One, two three four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten.'

"His mother still paying no attention, he shouted: 'My pants are made out of the window curtains!'"

Never Out of Work.

The busiest little things ever made are Dr. King's New Life Pills. Every pill is a sugar-coated globule of health, that changes weakness into strength, langour into energy, brain-fag into mental power; curing Constipation, Headache, Chills, Dyspepsia, Malaria. Only 25c at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Room for One More.

Archibishop Ireland was urging one of his senatorial friends to help the church with his presence, but the senator declined to be a regular church goer, giving this reason.

"One finds so many hyprocrites there."

"But there is always rooms for one more," said the genial prelate as he gripped the hand of his statesman friend.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

EVEN THE PARASOL HOBBLES NOW

FROM hampering one's feet in the exercise of the motion which nature designed the hobble has passed to the sunshade intended to protect one's head from the burning rays of the sun. The latest parasol, which will be carried by the Parisian women at the outdoor fetes which form so delightful a feature of life at the French city, shows a very decided hobble effect in the gathering of the silk between the ribs. The color of this latest sunshade is Persian in bright orange, red, green, blue and other tones. It is called the "palm" parasol. With it go a black gown trimmed with Persian silk collar and cuffs and a fine straw hat adorned with a big paradise feather. FRANCES WARD.

COUNTRY HOME NURSERY.

Suggestions For Making the Room a Delight to the Little Ones.

In planning a nursery for the suburban home sunlight, and plenty of it, is the first requisite. A southeast exposure is ideal, if it is to be had, for children, like plants, need all the sunlight and air possible, and with this exposure the sun on his daily journey may peep in at every window and the best of summer breezes float from this quarter.

A good hardwood floor, polished, but not waxed, lest it prove dangerous to uncertain little feet, should be in this room. The side walls are nicest covered with gray grasscloth; then the wonderful cut-outs in the farm wall paper designed for this purpose may be brought into play. Farmyard scenes, Mother Goose legends, fairy stories—all may be used in turn to change the decorations. The ceiling is best of paneled wood, so that it is easily kept clean. The tiles around the fireplace may be Dutch, in the Mother Goose or other story—tiles that were never so fascinating as they are today.

If the windows are built so as to allow deep window boxes to stow away playthings in and form seats when closed, so much the better. The low kindergarten table and little rubber shod chairs are a necessity, while one or more box couches are a great addition, for they play many parts in nursery history in a day.

Holland shades are best for curtains, and the fireplace should be well screened. The bookshelves should be built low, in reach of short arms. Plenty of bright denim cushions for the couches and a large bright shawl should not be forgotten, for if Indians are about they must needs have a tepee, and small campers need tents, and sleigh riders must have robes to trail behind.

A blackboard is a great addition to this room, as is also a big paper pad fastened to the wall with thumb tacks for real free hand drawings that may be torn up as soon as finished.

Twin Sisters' Good Record.

Miss Dennis Martin and Miss Gladys Martin, twin sisters, of Eldorado Springs, Mo., have made the highest grade made in the University of Missouri during the past four years. They tied on an average grade of 97.8 and headed the list of five seniors to be elected to the Phi Beta Kappa. The girls are in their twentieth year.

PRETTY SCARF OF PERSIAN SILK

As a holdover from the fall and winter seasons the scarf retains its popularity for use as an accessory of the smart woman's dress. One of the latest of these adornments is seen in the picture. It is made of Persian silk, with the ends ornamented with passementerie. The scarf is neither short nor long as scarfs go, being about two and a half yards in length.

AROUND THE HOUSEHOLD.

When steaming velvet over a teakettle insert a small funnel in the spout of kettle. This will spread the steam over a larger surface, and the work will be more quickly accomplished.

A small box of unslaked lime kept in the pantry will absorb all impurities and keep the air beautifully dry and sweet. The lime must be changed every two or three weeks.

To prevent the juice boiling out of a fruit pie during baking place in the center of the dish an earthenware funnel (made for the purpose and costing only a few cents) to allow the steam to escape.

Verdigris on metal can be removed by rubbing it with a cloth dipped in liquid ammonia.

Rub a little butter or other grease over your fingers before beginning to stone raisins and you will be able to stone them with very little trouble. A little butter should also be rubbed on the blade of the knife.

A candle can be made to fit any candlestick if it is dipped into very hot water first. This softens the wax, and it can then easily be pushed into the candlestick.

The water in which onions have been boiled is excellent for cleaning gilt picture frames. It removes specks and dirt and brightens the gilt. It should not be used till cold.

One Man's Opinion.

Governor Osborn of Michigan is evidently opposed to false hair. He said the other day that you could tell the stratum of society to which a girl belongs by the amount of false hair she wears. "The less money a girl has nowadays," he said, "the more hair she will put on in the form of puffs, curls and waves."

CHEESE IS HEALTHFUL.

Government Puts Official O. K. on Welsh Rabbit.

After conducting experiments with cheese as a food for several weeks the United States department of agriculture has officially indorsed cheese and has declared that the Welsh rabbit is a much maligned dish. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has just issued a formal bulletin giving the results of the experiments and singing the praises of American cheese.

"Cheese can no longer be discriminated against," says the department's bulletin, "because of a suspicion that it is not a healthful food. The absolute lack of any disturbance of the general health of the subjects used in the experiments is proof that cheese can be eaten in large quantities without danger to health."

The secretary's bulletin, which is prepared by C. F. Doane, assistant dairyman of the department of agriculture, deplores the fact that cheese is used by Americans chiefly as a matter of flavoring. This is all wrong. It ought to be consumed in larger quantities, according to Secretary Wilson. Eat more cheese is the general refrain of the report. The consuming public, especially that part of it which needs to practice economy in buying food, would do well to turn its attention a little more toward cheese are the department's own words in regard to this matter.

The fact is brought out in the report that many of the volunteers who were caged and stuffed with cheese were Wesleyan university students at Middletown, Conn. "The work at Middletown," says the report, "was planned to include green and ripe cheese, or cheese as soon after it was made as it was possible to ship samples to Middletown, and cheese in all stages of ripening up to the point where it was brewing, unfit for consumption.

A total of fourteen cheese experiments were made at Wesleyan, and sixty-five human subjects, the most of them college students, availed themselves of an opportunity to fill up on free cheese. Each undergraduate who applied got at least a three day diet of cheese, but one subject liked it so well that he submitted to fourteen experiments of three days each, a forty-two day cheese debauch. The department's report says that the students ranged from the ages of nineteen to thirty-two years, indicating apparently that some graduates or solemn looking professors also joined the cheese testing brigade.

The students were not held down absolutely to cheese. They got a few slices of bread with the crust removed, some bananas and now and then, as a treat, a dose of charcoal. The charcoal was taken in capsule form, and everything else possible was done to make the tests novel and pleasing. For instance, the students were not compelled to bite into a lump of the cheese, for it was cut into small pieces and then run through a finely graduated meat chopper. When the students received it it bore absolutely no resemblance to the cheese that is eaten with a pretzel, but looked more like a dish of breakfast food.

The report says that a pound of cheese has nearly the same food value as two pounds of fresh beef or any other fresh meat. It is worth as much as or more than a pound of ham and is more digestible and is equal to two pounds of eggs and three pounds of fish. In price good cheese costs about a third more than round steak and twice as much as the cheaper boiling beef and costs practically the same per pound as smoked ham or bacon. The department says that the only way to account for the comparatively limited demand for cheese is on the basis of custom and lack of knowledge.

Do Women Eat Too Much?

"Girls have more food and less work than is good for them," said Mrs. Ellen H. Richards, instructor in sanitary chemistry in the Massachusetts Institue of Technology, in an address recently. "The result is," she added, "that grandchildren fail. It is not overeducation, but overnutrition, that threatens race extinction. Women do not seem to realize that overnutrition as well as undernutrition weakens the body and subjects it to evils that make it incapable of survival. Wives who overeat and who are especially fond of rich, starchy foods rarely are mothers. Formerly it was the underfed who failed to survive, but now, I believe firmly, it is the overfed among whom the elimination is taking place. The abundance of food induces men and women to eat and drink more than their systems can care for. The woman who makes her luncheon of a medley of croquettes, salads and sweets, which never can agree, and of dishes dressed over so that the original ingredients may never be revealed really is paying from 50 to 75 cents for the next day in bed."

Better Than Glue.

Loose knife handles are the abomination of the kitchen. But an excellent remedy is to be had by filling the cavity in the handle two-thirds full of mixed rosin and brick dust. The shaft of the knife should then be heated, and while hot it should be pressed into its place. If held until firmly set no more trouble will be experienced with that knife handle.

Growing Mint Indoors.

Mint may be grown in winter in the kitchen, where it will be on hand quite fresh at all times for sauces, soups, chocolate creams and the like. Put a dozen sprays of mint in water in a stone jar and add water from time to time to keep the jar filled. Pick sprigs often from the tops and new shoots will grow in their place.

CARE OF SEWING MACHINE.

It Should Be Thoroughly Overhauled For Spring Sewing.

The care of a sewing machine is given far too little attention by the majority of women, and it seems a singular thing, too, for, like everything else, it responds generously to the right treatment. Where it is run quite constantly it should be oiled every night, but where it is used, say, a little every day or so, once a week is enough to clean and oil it.

It will be best before the spring sewing is begun to overhaul the machine thoroughly. Set it in a good light, loosen the strap and loosen the plate. Remove the shuttle if it is a double thread machine and get every particle of dust and dirt out. A steel stiletto with a soft cloth wound around the point will help a good deal. A small size camel's hair paint brush is a valuable aid in this cleaning process. Clean the wheel and all the lower part. Have two machine oil cans always, keeping one filled with good kerosene and the other with a standard machine oil. It is not economy to buy a cheap grade.

Use kerosene everywhere that oil is ordinarily put, then fasten the plate and put the strap in place and run the machine hard for a few minutes. Let it stand overnight, and in the morning wipe every particle of kerosene off and oil thoroughly. By this is not meant deluging the parts, but using perhaps a couple of drops in each place and being sure that none is forgotten. Run the machine a little and let stand overnight, and in the morning run it some more and wipe carefully. Most people use oil too generously when they use it at all, with the result that it keeps coming out and getting on materials.

If there seems to be much more difficulty in regulating the tension it will be better to have some one from the shop come out and fix it. If the shuttle tension is once well regulated it is almost never necessary to alter it, the regulating being done with the outside one.

Currant Pudding.

Pound two ounces of blanched almonds, add four eggs well beaten, two tablespoonfuls sugar, four tablespoonfuls breadcrumbs, two heaping tablespoonfuls butter. Put into a casserole two cupfuls of washed and dried currants, pour over them the above mixture and bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes. Beat up the whites of three eggs to a stiff froth, then add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanila extract and beat again. Arrange this meringue round edge of casserole, allow to brown and serve.—Table Talk.

How to Stuff Fowls.

In stuffing a chicken it should not be filled to bursting point, as the dressing, if it is mostly of bread, will swell, and if it bursts through it gives a most untidy appearance to the roaster. Chickens split and roasted should be covered until ready to brown, as they burn quickly and dry up before they are really done inside; also they require a generous amount of butter in the cooking. Quail are considered at their best when having a tiny savory stuffing. They are boiled in butter. It takes three pounds of butter for one dozen quail. Chicken should be wrapped in clean linen cloths if laid on the ice and not come in contact with anything that might not be absolutely clean. Ducks are chosen in the same way as the chickens. They are not as economical eating, nor are they as varied in daily usefulness, the chicken being by far the best all rounder.

As regards the toothsome capon chickens, the rule respecting age does not hold good, for there is rarely a more delicious bird to be enjoyed than a well fed and well dressed capon. Age does not dry up the juices, and, like old wine, they grow more mellow with age. At three years old even they are as tender as chicks with the proper chicken flavor fully developed.

It should be borne in mind as a good rule in choosing poultry that the small boned and short legged poultry are likely to excel the contrary sort in delicacy of color, flavor and fine texture of their flesh.

Rice to Remove Iron Rust.

Rice as a remover of iron rust it not to be excelled. Not only does it bleach the recent stain, but even that of long standing.

Boil a cupful of rice in two quarts of water for thirty minutes. Let it stand overnight and strain through a cheesecloth. Soak the iron rust spots in the rice water for four or five hours and then rinse in clear water. This will effectually remove rust stains, no matter how old.

For Washing Silver.

For washing silver put a half teaspoonful of ammonia into hot suds. Wash quickly, using a small brush. Rinse in hot water and dry with a clean linen towel, then rub dry with a chamois skin. Washed in this manner silver becomes brilliant and requires no polishing with any of the powders or whiting usually employed.

BOYS ARE BLAMED FOR CRIME WAVE THAT SWEEPS CITY

Grand Jury Is Told by Witnesses That If Any Clue At All Is Left, Thieves Appear to Be Youths.

New York, April 20.—The "bad boy" is the cause of the crime wave now under investigation, according to members of the grand jury and also investigators connected with District-Attorney Whitman's office. Yesterday's testimony went a long way to support the contention. Nearly four hundred persons who had been victims of burglars or thieves, some of them time and again, told of their tribulations, and whenever any definite knowledge of the criminals was known it was invariably a boy or a young man.

Greenwich Village was given attention, and after the conditions had been depicted by the merchants of that district the grand jury summoned Police Captain Sylvester Baldwin of the Charles street station, across the street from and within a block of whose station many burglaries have been committed, and demanded his blotter. Since Jan. 1, it appeared from the blotter of the Charles street station, 241 burglaries had been committed, fourteen burglaries had been attempted and 176 larecnies were reported, and this does not include the almost innumerable similar crimes which the merchants of the district no longer take the trouble to report because they say that to make the report is merely a waste of time.

THIRD PEACE CONGRESS TO MEET IN BALTIMORE.

Baltimore, April 20.—With the announcement yesterday of a delegation of bankers representing the New York Chamber of Commerce at the Third Peace Congress to be held in Baltimore from May 3 to 5, the number of prominent men who will attend the sessions has exceeded the most sanguine hopes of those having the congress in charge.

The topics for addresses which those scheduled to speak are sending in show the importance of the theme of universal peace. Henry Wade Rogers, dean of the Yale Law school, telegraphed yesterday that his subject will be "The United States in Relation to the Peace Movement."

Senator Henri la Fontaine, president of the Permanent Peace Bureau at Berne, Switzerland, and a senator of Belgium, sent a letter in which he said his subject will be "Internationalism as a Science."

Baron de Constant, member of the Second Hague Conference, will speak on "Co-operation of the Nations."

Other subjects announced yesterday were "The Arbitration Treaty with Great Britain," United States Senator Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio; "Universal Arbitration," Representative Richard Bartholdt, St. Louis; "The People Who Lived in Darkness Have seen Great Light," Andrew Carnegie, and "Pan-American Union," John Barrett.

Uprising Follows Capture of Santiago.

Special to Telegram.

Durango, Mexico, April 20.—Reports received here are to the effect that following the capture of Santiago, Papasquiaro, by the rebels there has been a general uprising throughout that region until at least 2,000 rebels are now under arms. They are reported to have invaded Haciendas, Toboso and Guatimape, near Santiago, and driven off a large number of horses. It is evident that they secured the horses for army purposes.

Immanuel Bible Class Meeting.

A large attendance of members and friends is expected. This class was organized in 1892, and its history is quite interesting. At tonight's reunion, its original organization and history will be discussed and plans made for future work. Vocal and instrumental music will be a feature of the evening.

Women and Society

FACING THE PROBLEMS

(By CARE REESE.)

What do you call that but being "indefinite?" You marched into a department store the other day and lodged a complaint against a salesman who had dealt unjustly with you.

When the salesman appeared before the tribunal in the stuffy little office and sentence was tersely pronounced by his superiors. "You are discharged," what then, sister? What then? Why, you began to plead the other way! The stuffy office tribunal was obdurate, however, and you have been weeping and wringing your hands ever since. And this is the way you act most of the time. You run around getting laws passed and ordinances put through, and then when you find they work the other way in stern reality, then you deplore conditions and struggle vainly for repeal.

There is a sort of definiteness to your credit, the definitness of one idea at a time, but the time limit expires or is exceeded by no known chronometer but your own. You are indefinite to the rest of the world. It is your lack of preciseness and certainly about affairs which keeps things in a turmoil. In a way this variableness and vacillating has its own peculiar charm. There is a sort of exhilaration trying to fathom or to devise some system whereby a genuine understanding of the feminine mind and fancies may be determined. But poets, philosophers and every-day sages give up and leave their harps high in the willows. You remain indefinite.

Except probably to your own sex. There is scarcely a woman but who knows exactly what she would do under given circumstances. And what she would do is what you will do in all probability. She knows that she would lodge complaint. She knows unerringly that if the delinquent be discharged on that complaint that her sympathies will rise immediately. On the heels of the sympathy the keen mental torment. Womankind knows pretty well how to gauge, determine and to define the boundaries of the individual woman. This is what will make suffrage so interesting when those who round up must deal with their problems. Given an equation and even the indefinite is at last brought to terms in definite solution.

So, in a way, you are right after all, and there is something definite in spite of the indefiniteness. It is only in cases where there is no awakened conscience, no sense of moral obligation, or where there is a degeneracy cloaked by a piquant and pleasing exterior, that the good woman stands baffled before her kind. Where there is no moral nature to appeal to, where there is no sense of responsibility or absolutely nothing in the way of comprehension, to attempt to determine is dubious.

Reception For Raleigh High School Boys.

Last evening at the home of Miss Mary Beall, Asheboro street, the members of the Greensboro High School ball team entertained the boys from the Raleigh High School who were here yesterday to play the locals. The occasion was one of sincere enjoyment to all present, the rivalry on the diamond being forgotten in the gaiety of the evening. Ices and cakes were served by Miss Beall.

In Honor of Miss Lanier.

Last evening at the home of Mrs. A. A. Crutchfield, 321 West Lee street, a number of friends attended a social gathering in honor of Miss Bernice Lanier, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. P. C. Crutchfield. A number of games were participated in, the booby prize falling to Miss Mabel Coggins and Clarence Crutchfield. A delightful musical program was rendered to the great enjoyment of those present. Seasonable refreshments were served and at a late hour the guests departed, voting the occasion a most enjoyable one.

G. F. College Alumnae Meeting.

The local Greensboro Female College alumnae held the final meeting before commencement yesterday afternoon in the library, there being a large attendance of the members of the local association. The reports of the various committees were heard and plans for the entertainment of "old G. F. C. girls" who will be here during commencement, were discussed. The chairmen of the memorial fund also made encouraging reports regarding the work of securing the funds for the memorial columns. In view of the fact that a large number of people do not thoroughly understand the purpose of this fund the association desires the following statement:

The Alumnae Association of Greensboro Female College desires to establish suitable memorials to the eight presidents who have administered the affairs of the institution and to do this it is proposed to raise a memorial fund of $500 for each president whose name and memory are to be thus perpetuated. The memorial will take the form of a handsome oil portrait to be placed in the chapel of the college and a tablet of statuary or bronze to be placed upon one of the stone columns supporting the circular front above the porch. In order that the association be entitled to the use of the columns for the tablets it would naturally follow for the association to pay into the building fund of the college a sum equivalent to the cost of the circular front, this to be applied on the college debt. It is gratifying to know, however, that the trustees have kindly agreed that if the Alumnae Association will raise the above fund they may have the use of the columns for the memorials and that any excess above the actual cost of the portraits and the tablets may go towards the alumnae fund for the endowment of the chair of English.

CHICAGO SOLVES SERVANT PROBLEM

"Contracting Houseworkers," Paid by Hour or Day, Replace the Old-Time "Hired Girl."

Chicago, April 20.—Vanishes the servant problem.

Goodby to the old-fashioned "hired girl." Enter the "contracting houseworker."

This latest queen of the kitchen and autocrat of the household is on the job in large numbers in Oak Park, one of Chicago's fashionable suburbs.

The "contracting houseworkers" do not work by the week. They work by the hour or day, with the number of hours a day distinctly and legally understood, with their own independent homes and home life, and with evenings and Sundays at their own disposal. They are as independent as factory workers and better paid.

A canvass of employment agencies in Chicago and the suburbs demonstrated that the young woman who accepts a position as servant in a family at a certain wage a week with all questions as to her independent life and privilege left to the discretion and generosity of her mistress, is rapidly entering into the class of the dodo.

Mrs. Raymond Robins, who conducted investigations for the New York Association for Household Research in all the important cities of Europe and Ameriea, said the system of "contracting houseworkers" now coming into vogue in Chicago has been established in Paris for many years.

Mrs. W. L. Abbott of this city was operated upon for appendicitis at St. Leo's hospital yesterday morning. She was resting well last night.

Mrs. A. J. Patterson, of Liberty, spent yesterday in the city shopping.

Mrs. Lula Carr returned last night from High Point where she was called on account of the illness of E. R. Carr.

Miss Genie Gwynn, of Mt. Airy, is visiting her sister at G. F. College.

Miss Linda Wharton, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. S. Kuykendall, in Winston-Salem, has returned home.

Mrs. John Watlington has returned to her home in Reidsville. Mrs. Watlington, who has been a patient at St. Leo's hospital, is recovering nicely.

Miss Matt Hindman, of Charlotte, is visiting Miss Pearl Jones, Asheboro street.

Mrs. R. J. Allen, who has been quite ill at her home on East Bragg street, was reported as somewhat improved last night.

WOOD URGES COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING.

Washington, April 20.—Compulsory military training was advocated by General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the United States army, in a speech last night at a banquet of the Sons of the Revolution. General Wood considered the American army in some respects insufficient. He proposed that the public schools teach military science. Another suggestion for improvement was the shortening of the terms of enlistment in the army and militia, thus permitting the training of a larger proportion of men.

To Protect Americans Received by Army Officers at El Paso.

Special to Telegram.

El Paso, Texas, April 20.—In anticipation of the battle at Juarez the officers in command of the American troops at El Paso have received special instructions to prepare to protect the American side of the Rio Grande. Brig.-Gen. Duncan, commander of the detachment at San Antonio, said that he was not at liberty to discuss the orders he had received but it is known that the situation at El Paso and Juarez is considered to be much more serious than was that at Douglas and Agua Prieta. It is not believed that the attack will begin before noon Friday. The insurrectos have advanced four columns near the city, two in front and two in the rear. Madero is in command.

Cases in Guilford Superior Court

The third nonsuit of the term was granted in Guilford Superior court yesterday morning, the case being that of W. H. McLean vs. Provident Savings Life Assurance Company. This case was taken up Wednesday afternoon and at the conclusion of the evidence of the plaintiff a motion to nonsuit was made by the defendant. The motion was sustained and notice of appeal was filed.

In the case of C. W. Lee vs. Jno. T. Herser Coal Company the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, awarding $81.57, the amount asked for.

The case of Clay W. Jones vs. City of High Point was then taken up and was in progress when court adjourned for the day. The plaintiff is seeking to recover damages in the sum of $2,000 because of the defendant's allowing a sewer to empty near his premises.

The Federal Council, representing 16,000,000 American Christians, indorses the peace plans, and the Lake Mohonk conference in May will consider and indorse them, it is said. Details are in hand for a great peace meeting to be held in the new Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

THE USEFUL SAFETY PIN.

It Can Be Employed In Many Ways About the Household.

Not even a hairpin is capable of so many uses outside its legitimate office as the safety pin. Like the hairpin, the safety pin may be employed to do what the needle is supposed always to do on well kept garments—fasten buttons and catch ripped facings. As a button fastener on a garment it has no rival for thoroughness, though it might not be well to whisper this fact to the girls who have not made the discovery for themselves and who are apt to find sleight of hand methods in mending.

But in the closet and wardrobe and the workbasket the safety pin finds its greatest usefulness. And right here why does not some enterprising manufacturer bring out safety pins that are fine enough to run through small button eyes? For in keeping buttons of the same kind apart from the riffraff of the usual button bag there is nothing like a safety pin—that is, when the eyes of the buttons are not too small to let the pin go through them.

Most women have washable waists and skirts from which the buttons have to be removed when they are sent to the laundry, and a mere safety pin will keep these together and save the wild excitement of finding that last button that is sure to disappear just at the most exasperating moment.

Half a dozen long, fine safety pins in the workbasket threaded with buttons of various kinds, hooks and eyes and the like will save trips to the button bag and prevent nervous search when one is in a hurry. Nothing will take the safety pin's place in the small traveling sewing receptacle. A small pin will take on all the buttons one can possibly need for an ordinary trip, and another will hold together the hooks and eyes that may be required.

For the closet, especially in traveling or visiting, a few safety pins will make themselves very useful. If there are not tapes on skirts—and there never are these days—a pin catching both sides of the skirt together at each side the front and then these pins caught on two hooks in the closet will do better service than the usual skirt hanger.

Frock of Green Pongee.

This stunning afternoon frock is made of reseda green pongee and is most attractive when trimmed with Getting Tobacco Smoke Out of the Draperies.

Many women who do not in the least object to the odor of fresh cigar or even cigarette smoke about the house find the stale after odor that hangs in draperies and furnishings intolerable. The window of a room where smokers sit should always be dropped an inch or two from the top, for the light smoke rises and is sucked out through this aperture. When the room has become permeated with the smoke from several cigars or cigarettes close it up tightly and place on the floor a large tub of cold water in which float bits of straw pulled from a broom. The straw and water for some reason absorb all the stale odor, and when the windows are thrown open next morning the air of the room will be fresh and pure.

The Proper Sized Broom.

A heavy broom should be chosen for thorough sweeping in preference to a light one, for the weight adds to the process. To test a new broom press the edge against the floor. If the straws bristle out and bend the broom is a poor one and should be rejected. They should remain in a firm, solid mass.

The Milk Bottle.

Milk bottles are washed most easily if filled with cold water and emptied. Later rinse with soapsuds and then with scalding water.

HANDICAPPED

This is the Case With Many Greensboro People.

Too many Greensboro citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief, but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills help sick kidneys.

The following statement should convince every Greensboro reader of their efficiency.

F. C. Remfry, 512 S. Main St., High Point, N. C., says: "I was in such a miserable condition with kidney trouble that I did not believe there was any cure for me. My back and limbs were so sore that I could not get up after sitting without assistance and it was impossible for me to go about easily. The kidney secretions were also scanty and highly colored. I doctored and took medicine faithfully, but I did not improve. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills and the contents of three boxes made a permanent cure."

ANIMATED GIMLETS.

Wonderful Boring Insects That Destroy Telegraph Poles.

It has long been known that construction timbers in bridges and like structures, railroad ties, mine props and fenceposts are sometimes seriously injured by wood boring larvae, ants, carpenter bees and powder post beetles, their efficiency being reduced from 10 to 100 per cent, but until now the problem of insect damage to standing poles and posts has never been made the subject of a special investigation. How serious the problem is may be judged from the fact that in a single telegraph line in West Virginia (forty miles long, with thirty-six chestnut poles to the mile) built twelve years ago about 600 poles have been rotted off at the ground, inspection showing that 95 per cent of the damage was due to our animate little gimlet.

It is very small, but amazingly potent for evil and incredibly swift. It is an animated gimlet. Until lately it has not been regarded as an insect of any economic importance and has been flippantly described in entomological literature as living only under the bark, chiefly of the pine, or in the decomposing wood of various species of deciduous and coniferous trees. We know more about it now; we know that the grub or larva of this industrious little auger, mining into the wood near the line of contact with the ground, has been eating away countless thousands of poles, necessitating their resetting or even replacement.—Philadelphia Press.

IN THE LABOR WORLD

The American Federation of Labor will be represented in the World's Congress of Labor, to be held this year in Budapest, Hungary. An effort is to be made at that session to establish a world-wide organization of all the labor bodies with a system of international, interchangeable working cards.

The Department of Agriculture has just issued a comprehensive statement of wages paid from labor, which last year were the highest in forty-five years, still do not look attractive. According to the figures given, the highest wages paid was in Nevada, where the rate was $54, while in Montana and Washington it was $50. South Carolina paid the lowest rate $16.50 a month.

United Laborers' union No. 13,162 has been organized in San Francisco, Cal., with a large charter list. The members of the new union are men who are classed as migratory workers, employed on a job here today and in another city a few days later. They are furnished with cards which entitle them to obetain jobs under union conditions, wherever they may go in the State.

Advices from England indicate that the employers and workmen are in for a big fight in the printing trade. The claim of the men for a fifty-hour week this year and a forty-eight hour week in 1912 is stoutly opposed by the employers, and recently there was a large cessation of work by the men in an attempt to enforce their terms. Both sides appear to be resolute and solid.

Among matters to be discussed at the approaching convention of the American Federation of Musicians to be held in Atlanta, Ga., will be the regulation of the importation of foreign orchestral organizations which may come under contract to the United States and some positive action in the matter of regular army and navy bands coming into competition with members of the union in localities in which such bands may be stationed.

The machinists' strike has ended on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, the company having signed an agreement along the line of the demands of the men for an eight-hour day and an increase of wages ranging from two to three cents an hour, according to the class of work. The strike has been on for more than ten months. This is the first railroad in the United States that has granted its men the eight-hour day.

Serious industrial trouble has suddenly developed in the British pottery trade. This threatens to culminate in a general strike involving fifty thousand operatives. In the main, the pottery workers find serious fault with the working of the conciliation board of their industry. The men's leaders argue that the present rules of the board, excluding from its consideration some of the most important trade customs, are not equitable and that the scope of the board should be enlarged to enable it to deal with questions of any character as they arise.

The Court of Appeals at Albany, N. Y., recently declared unconstitutional the workmen's compulsory compensation act passed at the last session of the Legislature. The act was modeled after the compensation laws of Great Britain, and was the result of the investigations of a legislature commission appointed in 1909 to look into the question of employers' liability and industrial accidents. The commission, know as the "Wainwright Commission," had the active aid and support in formulating its measure of organized labor throughout the State.

A movement to organize the railway mail clerks and affiliate them with the American Federation of Labor has quietly been going forward for some time. Announcement from Washington is now made that the movement has been fruitful, notwithstanding the active opposition of the Postmaster-General, who, through his second assistant, transmitted a letter to the various district superintendents of the railway mail service, claiming that such organization of the clerks would be inimical to the interests of the government, and that in joining they would violate their oath of office. Secretary Frank Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, attacks the attitude of the Post-office Department.

TITLED ENGLISHMAN RETURNS TO HIS HOME MINUS HEIRESS

New York, April 20.—Ralph Francis Julian Stoner, Baron Camoys, pal of the Hon. Bobby Beresford and usher at the wedding of Lord-Decies and Vivien Gould, said last night he will sail on the Lusitania for England today.

"It's the coronation that's taking me back, lamented Camoys. "And, 'pon my word, only the coronation of a King or a death in the family would make me leave dear old New York. I've had a rippin' time. Really, I've been jolly well surprised at the country, eh, what? Fine chaps, even if they wear no monacles; fine girls, even of they have no titles."

Camoys was reminded that he hadn't justified the predictions of many of his American acquaintances by seriously engaging in an "affair of the heart" and surrendering to an heiress, as Lord Decies did.

"Nothing but bally newspaper talk," exclaimed Camoys. "The press men have jolly well spoofed about that feature of my visit.

"No, really old chap," responded Camoys to the merest hit that he may have been unsuccessful in the search for his ideal. "I'm returning to America in July—late in July. I'm to see a bit of Newport. After that I go to Canada—to British Columbia too, where I have interests. After that? Ah, well, who knows? Back to England perhaps, there to find her."

Camoys is sorry that the Hon. Bobby Beresford is not to return with him tomorrow. He intimated that he didn't blame the Hon. Bobby for deciding to remain over for a bit, and added, with a knowing wink:

"Bobby's in Philadelphia these days. There's a reason, as you Americans say. It isn't that he really wants to arrange a "go" with Tony Drexel again, or is anxious to take on Mr. Biddle. I'm told—but don't give me away—that Bobby's heart is in no condition just now to withstand any further jolts."

Camoys has bought a dozen or more outfits of American made clothes. He says the American cut, if not the materials, is superior to the English, even if the price is a bit higher.

Good results always follow the use of Foley Kidney Pills. They give prompt relief in all cases of kidney and bladder disorders. Try them. Howard Gardner.

An Unknown Language.

Nat Goodwin tells this story:

He went into a music store and asked for what he wanted somewhat abruptly: "Mikado libretto."

"I bey your pardon?" stammered the salesman.

"Mikado libretto," repeated Nat Goodwin.

The salesman gulped, then: "Me no speakee Italiano!" he replied.

Hard to Enlist.

"No one knows until he makes the try," said a man recently who was looking for "something to do," "how hard it is to get into the army. I am down and out, and I thought that would be a good three year job. On the same day that I tried twenty-two others did, and not one got in. Bad eyes, bad teeth and all sorts of things are booked against you. One fellow who went with me got 'Ike' put after his name when they shut him out. We didn't know till the sergeant told us that it meant 'insufficient knowledge of English.'"—New York Tribune.

A Seemingly Forgotten Fund.

The sum of $50,000, which was accumulated from concessions in the woman's building at the world's Columbian exposition in 1893, has not been disposed of and remains on deposit in a Chicago bank. The building was under the charge of a board composed of women from all the states of the Union, and the agreement was that the profits should be devoted to national charity. The original committee has never met to decide what to do with the money.—Argonaut.

Patience and Good Work

(By VIRGINIA HARLAN.)

It is by patience and diligence that we earn respect of our fellows.

To be truly conscientious is really to put our best work into everything we do, not only for our own sakes, but for the sake of our employers.

"Be patient and work well." Could the business girl have a better motto? Is not patience one of the best gifts our fairy godmothers gave us? And if it was omitted, it can be cultivated. If to good and thorough work we add patience, will not the road to reward and success be smoother and shortened greatly?

When we make a resolution which is to help us on we should also resolve to stick to our principles, and determine that nothing shall swerve us from the path we have chosen. For of what use is the resolve to make better our lives if we make it only to be broken the next week?

"Be patient and work well." It might be well for each one of us to constantly examine ourselves, and bring out our defects into the light of self-knowledge, and resolve that we will try to remedy our faults and face the world with new courage.

To begin with, there is our daily work at the office, shop, factory, or at home. Wherever our sphere of work lies we must determine to do our best, not only for our own sakes, but for the good of those who are dependent on us. Above all, let us be true to ourselves; this can only be if we do our very best on all occasions.

Good work in the office is always recognized sooner or later, and if we are but patient enough the reward is sure to come.

A resolution made and broken is one stone knocked out of the foundation of our character, but a good resolution made and adhered to in spite of the obstacles which may be in our path means a stone added in the building of our character.

Therefore, if a girl resolves to be patient, and to give to her employer the best work that she can do, and persist in doing this, even though at times she feels discouragement stealing over her, she will find that each time she overcomes the temptation to hand in slovenly work, and each time she puts aside the impatient thought, it becomes easier to keep the resolution of "doing her best."

Thus, stone upon stone, the foundation of her character is laid, and the world will know that here is the promise of a strong, fine woman. That surely is worth while.

The Royal Chateau was destroyed in the Franco-Prussian war, but there remain descriptions of it and of the paintings of Watteau that paneled the salon. These paintings suggested the idea to Mrs. MacVeagh and she ordered the architects to go ahead regardless of expense and reproduce the famous salon of the Bourbon kings. The salon is wonderfully artistic, and has caused much admiration. The mural decorations are strikingly beautiful, having been done by the best artists in this country.

To Prevent Premature Interment.

Professor Anthony de Choinski of Dresden has been granted a patent at Washington for an apparatus the object of which is to provide a safeguard against burial alive. The apparatus consists of an air tight chamber, with air pump attachment and a glass door in top. When a body is placed inside the chamber all the air is withdrawn, leaving the body in a vacuum. It is claimed that signs of life, if there be any, are readily to be detected as the air is being pumped out of the chamber, this being due to the release of atmospheric pressure, estimated at sixteen pounds to the square inch, from the body.—New York World.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE BIBLE

Celebration of Tercentenary of King James Version Directs Particular Attention to the Book of Books---Church News.

(By D. V. FRANCIS.)
Special to The Telegram.

New York, April 20.—The celebration of the ter-centenary of the King James Bible has brought out some interesting and not generally known facts about the good book.

There is a great Bible exhibition at the British Museum in London which has attracted much attention.

There are over 100 exhibits in this special display. Number one is the Pentateuch in Hebrew, and perhaps the oldest manuscript now in existence of any substantial part of the Bible.

Its immediate neighbor is a volume of the famous Codex Alexandrinus, written in uncial characters on vellum, dating from perhaps the middle of the fifth century. This manuscript once belonged to the Patriarchal Chamber of Alexandria, and in 1628 was presented to Charles 1. by Cyril Lucar, then Patriarch of Constantinople. Many other ancient MSS. of the Scriptures in Greek, Syriac, and Coptic are in this case.

An exhibit which specially attracted visitors was the famous Lindisfarne Gospels in the Latin Vulgate Version, written in a fine unical hand and ornamented exquisitely in the Anglo-Celtic style. This book, of great interest to the English, was written at the monastery of Lindisfarne, or Holy island, off the Northnumberland coast in 700. There it appears to have remained until the Danish invasion of 875, took place when Bishop Eardulf fled with his treasure. On the way to Ireland, the story goes, the book was lost overboard, but was cast up by the tide. Eventually it came into the hands of Sir Robert Cotton early in the seventeenth century.

A Bible near it which attracted almost as much attention was one by a scribe named William of Devo, either at Rochester, or Canterbury, early in the thirteenth century. This book is remarkable for its delicacy of ornamentation.

The relics of Tyndale's works, as a matter of course, occupy several cases apart. His New Testament is almost in the words and manner familiar to all.

There is a copy in English of the earlier Wycliffe version, written towards the end of the fourteenth century, which belonged to Thomas of Woodstock, Duke of Gloucester, youngest son of Edward III who was put to death by order of Richard II, in 1397. A copy of the later Wycliffe version, written in the fifteenth century, was presented to Queen Elizabeth as a New Year's gift by John Bridges, one of her chaplains.

Naturally some disconcerting mistakes have from time to time been made in the printing, and and copies of the Bible containing these errors are greatly prized.

Some of the following are among the commoner mistakes which have been found:

"Treacle" Bible (1568)—"Is there no treacle in Gilead?" (Jeremiah viii:, 22.)

"Rosin" Bible (the first Douai Bible).—"Is there no rosin in Gilead?"

"Vinegar" Bible (Oxford, 1716.—Parable of the vinegar (vineyard). (Heading of St. Luke xx.)

"Breeches" Bible (Geneva Bible).—"They sewed fig leaves together and made themselves breeches." (Genesis iii., 7)

"Bug" Bible (1551).—"So thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugges by night." (Psalm xci., 5).

"Murderers" Bible,—"These are murderers (murmurers). (Judge 13."

"Wife hater." Bible (Oxford, 1810).—"If any man come to me and hate not his own wife (life) he cannot be my disciple." St. Luke xiv 26.

"I would draw up my orders and leave the church tomorrow if I thought that God cared for one set of the community and not for the other," said the Bishop of London recently. Why were there rich and poor? his lordship went on to ask. The answer of the theosophist was no good today. He had more respect for the man who said our society was on a wrong basis. On economic grounds he did not agree with the Socialists who, however, were in many cases full of burning love for the community. His lordship believed God had given the minority their riches in trust, in order that they might pass them on to others.

There is likely to be a lively time at the meeting of the Presbyterian General Assembly at Atlantic City in May. There has been an increase in administrative expenses in recent years from $50,000 to $90,000 a year and there will be some lively debates on this subject.

This sharp advance is due to several causes. One is the formation of what amounts to a permanent administrative board, widely distributed in membership so as to be representative and making a sort of continuous assembly. It has come to be that the assembly moderater for the year must provide a substitute for his regular work and give all his time to general work. Another cause is the Cumberland consolidation, increasing the number of members of assembly and increasing distances that they travel. A third cause is declared to be the heresy cases carried to assembly by New York commissioners. Expecting exciting times, commissioners attended who would otherwise have remained at home.

New York is expected to keep up its record this year with a hersey case.

Despite the action of the last general assembly in New York cases, wherein Presbyterians were warned against the ordination of candidates to the ministry whose views were not sound on the fundamentals of the Westminter confession, the New York Presbytery has ordained a young man whose views are nebulous on some of the principal points in the Confession and this will, it is expected, cause a lively debate.

The Catholic Church Extension society of the United States, of which Archbishop Quigley, of Chicago, is chancellor, has issued a call for a Catholic women's missionary movement. The society refers in its call to the Protestant women's missionary movement, which accomplishes much, it says. The society proposes branches, and expresses the hope that at the missionary congress, to be called next year, enough will have been formed to put the movement upon a national basis. Two rules, prayer and sacrifice, are outlined for the movement, the prayer to be one which the Pope has authorized for the society, which is "St. Philip Neri, pray for us," and the secrific to be made on one day of each year, something gone without to the value of 50 cents, and that amount contributed to the movement. Especially urgent does the society regard its work for Catholic children, and the call for the movement states that women entering it are to work particularly for children, those of American-born Catholics, and of Catholic immigrants. The official call contains pictures of people and buildings illustrative of work accomplished by Protestant

NEWS OF SPORTS

GREENSBORO LOST TO THE RALEIGH HIGH SCHOOL BOYS

In a ragged game of ball the Raleigh High School defeated the Greensboro High School yesterday afternoon by the score of eight to one. Coffin twirled for the locals and allowed eight scattered hits. He fanned eight men and walked two. The support was quite ragged, eleven errors by his teammates being largely responsible for the uneven score. C. Williamson twirled for Raleigh and half a dozen hits were secured, two being for two bases. He fanned eleven men and hit one batsman. In the third inning his teammates fell down and made three errors and gave Greensboro her lone run. After that they played errorless ball and the only fumble was made by Williamson, this being unimportant.

Several times Greensboro men got on the bases, but could not get a hit when it would have counted for a run. The Raleigh boys purloined no less than eleven sacks, five coming in one inning. The local backstop appeared unable to hold the ball and his throwing to second was far from perfect. The Raleigh lads were several pounds heavier than the locals and this fact seemed to take the spirit out of the locals, their playing throughout the game being listless. Raleigh's short stop made several pickups that many professionals would have failed to get.

GREENVILLE BASEBALL DOPE.

Schumacher will make his reappearance in the Carolina association this year. He has reported to Winston-Salem and according to the papers of that city is putting up a nice game of ball on the initial bag. He was at one time with the Charlotte club, but was sold to the Fayetteville team of the Eastern Carolina league, where he played two years. The latter part of last season he was with Columbia of the South Atlantic league.

Big old Togo Bentley is back at Greensboro this year, being one of the few old players back. Bentley is a good man and can play almost any position. He is a hard hitter in addition to be a good man in the field.

Ed Doak is showing good form and the fans are expecting him to do some good work this year. Doak is a native of this State.

Very little dope is being turned loose in Charlotte but it is a safe bet that Manager Lave Cross will have a fast bunch of men. There are few of last year's men back.

Sam Landford is anxious to become a Spinner, having wired over for terms. The local management, however, decided not to take him on.

Polie Jenkins continues to show good form and has practically won a place for himself. Jenkins is much faster this year than last and great things are expected of him.—Daily Piedmont.

SPARTANBURG BASEBALL DOPE.

Vickery and Westlake make a mouthy battery.

Moore, Spartanburg's young catcher, is clouting the ball good and hard.

Pitcher Fussedunn, will leave today for Newport News, Va., to play in the Tidewater league.

Jack Spaulding, the Washington boy, leaves for home either Tuesday or Wednesday.

Outfielder McCraney is a speedy man on the bases and in the field.

Wofford will probably have a contender in right field in Catcher Moore, who can also play the outfield well.

Outfielder Erickson, released by Charleston, practiced with the Spartans Monday, but he doesn't look good enough here.

"Legs" Martin says he has changed his mind about playing ball with Cleveland, Tenn., this year.

Our infield looks better every day, and the outfield is rounding into splendid shape.—Journal.

LOW-PRICED TALENT NOISE IN THE TWO MAJOR LEAGUES

(By GRANTLAND RICE.)

As a general proposition along most roads of existence, if you care to get your grip upon anything of class, you have to come across with the coin in proportion to quality and quantity.

But as a general proposition it's the other way around in baseball. It isn't the high-priced bric-a-brac at $10,000 a throw that has delivered the bulk of the merchandise in the Big Show. In the main the costly athletes have fallen down on the job. The real people have come cheap, and were the rankest bushers before they flashed and flamed out at the lead of the big parade.

New York forked over $11,000 for Mr. Marquard. You know the rest—up to date, at least.

Cleveland cashed out $6,500 for Heinie Berger, and Heinie has yet to set any great portion of the trail on fire.

Thoney cost the Boston Red Sox $12,500 in money and traded talent, and Thoney has yet to show for the $500 part of it.

Comiskey dented his bankroll about $4.500 for Lena Blackburn, and after a season's trial Lena is swinging by one mit to a utility role.

And there are others in the same skiff—ball players who brought big money upon the auction book, but who fizzled quickly when the show-down came.

The Loudest Noises in the Profession, however, who have furnished the racket of late seasons, are the ones who were yanked from the bushes at little or no cost.

Where Indianapolis drew $11,000 for Marquard, the Augusta South Atlantic club developed Cobb and Rucker, and drew down $1,250 for the pair. Cobb cost Detroit $750, and Brooklyn drew Rucker for the remaining $500. Where Providence picked up $7,500 for Blackburn. Boston grabbed Tris Speaker from Little Rock for $750.

The Yanks paid $6,000 for Fred Glade and $1,000 for Russ Ford. King Cole cost the Cubs the dizzy amount of 200 bones, and carry Chance's team to its fourth flag.

Connie Mack drew Coombs for nothing. Collins for nothing, Rube Oldring for $500, Krause for $500 and Baker and Barry for less than $1,000 each.

Ebbets nailed Rucker for $750, Daubert for $1,000 and Wheat for $1,000. Walter Johnson cost Washington railroad fare from the west. Ed Walsh cost Comiskey $250 and Schulte involved an equal layout by the Cubs.

Cincinnati has paid $3,000 or more for many a bloomer, but balked at shoving out $1,200 for Mathewson and let him drift by.

Set over against the $6,000 and $11,000 stars, how far do you figure a line-up of people who cost 1,000 bones each, or less, would travel? One, for example, with about this playing array:

Catchers—Sweeney and Archer; pitchers—Johnson, Walsh, Ford and Rucker; first base—Jake Daubert; second base, Eddie Collins; shortstop, Barry, third base, Baker; outfield, Cobb, Speaker and Wheat.

These were all spring phenoms at one time who had just emerged from the Big Brush, and who cost all told less than $25,000. But today with a run of team play developed, there isn't a team in either circuit near the same general class.

All of which explains the terrific boom in the scout industry the past few years.—Atlanta Journal.

Washington, April 20.—While President Taft has not decided definitely on a successor to Ambassador Hill at Berlin, one name that he is expected to consider is that of Representative Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio.

Mr. Longworth is understood to be willing to enter the diplomatic service, having spent about all the time he cares to in Congress or political life. Both he and Mrs. Longworth, who was Miss Alice Roosevelt, are intimate friends of the President.

One objection that might be made to his appointment to such an important position as that at Berlin would be his inexperience in diplomatic affairs. If not selected for Berlin, however, Mr. Longworth may be chosen to fill some other important post.

Cottolene

A Rational National Shortening

The woods are full of imitations of Cottolene—because Cottolene has made a pronounced success as "the perfect shortening." These imitations are of inferior quality, are packed in tins with ordinary removable covers, and depend largely upon substitution methods for their sale.

When you ask for Cottolene be sure you get Cottolene. There's only one Cottolene—packed in patent air-tight tin pails, with our trade-mark on the face of the pail.

It pays to pay a little more for Cottolene because of its superior quality and the fact that, being richer, it will go one-third farther than lard or any of its imitations. Its use means economy in the end.
